This Category List allows each team to keep track of which questions are available.

Here is a quick summary of the rules for a TEAM game:

- A game lasts 10 minutes, with the timekeeper standing at 9 minutes.
- The game begins with the reading of the lowest point value question of the first category listed. If no team answers that question, the next lowest point value question will be asked. After a question has been answered correctly, the team that most recently answered a question correctly has 5 seconds to confer and choose which category and point value the next question comes from. The captain will relay this information to the quizmaster.
- "Buzz-out": A player who scores 50 or more points has "buzzed-out" and is no longer eligible to buzz for the duration of that game, but will remain seated at the table and can still offer input on category selection. In case of a tie, all buzzed-out players are eligible to buzz on the tie-breaker.
- When a player correctly answers the toss-up invoking a buzz-out, the scorekeeper(s) will immediately notify the quizmaster that a buzz-out has occurred. The Quizmaster is to stop time and the audience is to recognize the player for this accomplishment with applause. After this, time is resumed and the game continues with the reading of the next question.
- "Free-for-all Rebound": If the first team to buzz misses the question, each player on the opposing team may buzz-in and attempt to answer the question until someone answers correctly or all players have attempted. After each miss, the next player's buzz must be immediately forthcoming; otherwise the quizmaster is to move on to the next question.
- If the first team to buzz misses the question, the quizmaster will re-read the entire question to the opposing team. Should a player on the opposing team buzz-in and miss before the end of the re-read, the question will not be completed for the remaining players.
- All questions have a specific type of answer based on its category, therefore only the required answer, its direct modifier(s), and insignificant words may be given.
